Eric Palmer is a partner at Meshbeshier & Spence in Minneapolis, Minnesota. Since 2007, he has focused his practice on litigation that stems from motor vehicle collisions with a special emphasis on trucking. Eric is highly involved in forensic inspections and high-tech investigations of collisions. Eric's legal practice was heavily influenced by his father Ralph Palmer, who is known widely as a "lone-wolf" litigator in personal injury in the Minnesota market. Eric has taken elements of his father's approach and has modernized it. Eric has tried a wide variety of personal injury claims to a jury verdict, which include multiple 7-figure awards since Courts reopened after the COVID pandemic.
